Countdown heads for Friday a.m. liftoff

Most NSTL personnel to view Shuttle launch on television

By BRENT MACEY
Most members of National Space Technology Laboratories who worked developing and testing the Columbia Space Shuttle engines in Hancock County will watch Friday's launch on their home television, according to Robert James, administrator of finance and administration for Rocketdyne at NSTL.

A few from various departments have been invited to the launch site at Cape Kennedy, Fla., but most likely they will be only spectators there, James said.

But, James added, "Quite a few are going down at their own expense to witness the launching first hand."

James, who will be watching the scheduled 5:48 a.m. central time launching Friday on his TV at home, said one of those special invitations has been extended to Jack Sotak, the mechanic's lead man on the main propulsion test article testing at NSTL.

"He was chosen for his high level of accomplishment on work performed on testing the space shuttle engines," James said.

Sotak, who works for Rocketdyne, a subsidiary of Rockwell International, was stationed at NSTL to test the engines built in California.

Some 230 employees worked for Rocketdyne at the testing site. Approximately 218 worked testing single engines and 12 employees, including Sotak, worked with Rocketdyne's sister company, Space Systems Division, to test the combined engine clusters and external tank.

Boyce Mix, space shuttle main engine resident manager for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at NSTL, will also be in Florida Friday for the launch.

"I have been working on this program four or five years and I wouldn't miss it for the world," Mix said.

He stated final testing at NSTL approximately two weeks ago concerned working out problems which developed with the insulation on the external tank.

"The extreme cold temperatures of the liquid fuels caused the metal to contract in two areas on the external tank. The insulation in those areas became unbonded," Mix said.

Secret meeting Monday, open meeting Wednesday

Bay board again eyeing 3rd grade

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Renovation of North Bay Elementary School and relocation of certain classes were slated for discussion at a special Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District Board of Trustees meeting Wednesday night.

J.D. McCullough, superintendent of education, Wednesday morning reported, "This meeting is not to discuss renovating a middle school, but we have to get those third grade students out of the east wing of Bay

Senior High School."

The superintendent would not elaborate on his ideas regarding student housing.

North Bay third graders were moved from dilapidated mobile classrooms to the high school last year and the trailers were sold.

"We will also discuss the housing for all students for the 1981-1982 school year," McCullough said.

When asked if the board had met in secret session Monday night to discuss establishing a middle school, Mc-Cullough replied, "We had a 'workshop meeting' and discussed a lot of things including several areas of improvement and school problems."

The school district now utilizes an elementary, junior high and senior high student housing system.

The superintendent reported, "Right now the Educational Needs Assessment Committee is working on recommendations."

"In the near future we'll be discussing these recommendations to try to tie them all into a modern program—curriculum wise and a building program," he noted.

Regarding the renovation program, McCullough said if the board approves a $115,000 North Bay improvement proposal it will be forwarded to the State Educational Finance Commission with a funding request.

McCullough also said the school district is planning to replace a built up asphalt roof and fascia, replacing water damaged ceiling sections and installing a fiberglass roof and new fascia," the superintendent stated.

McCullough said the roofing work for 26,980 square feet is estimated at $71,300.

"The proposal also calls for removing and replacing the metal walkway covers which are leaking. This work involving 5,770 square feet is estimated to cost $14,600," he reported.

McCullough also said sandblasting and painting of exposed steel joist angles and purlins at the roof edge is estimated at $5,500.

"Sandblasting of the walkway's exposed beams and columns involving 722 linear feet is estimated at $3,700," he stated.

The superintendent also reported replacement of 12 exterior wood doors and hardware is estimated at $3,000.

Total cost of renovation work is $99,100 plus $6,000 in architect's fees and a $10,500 contingency fund.

Band wins highest honors

Bay bus drivers praised for actions in accident

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Parents of Bay High Tiger Pride Band members say quick action and cool thinking by school bus drivers avoided serious injury to their passengers in a head-on collision near Jackson Saturday night.

Some nine band members were injured in the 10 p.m. accident on Hwy. 18 between Jackson and Raymond.

Robert Magee, Bay Senior High School principal, and W.J. Cameron, Bay Junior High School principal, reported all students injured in the accident attended classes Monday morning.

The accident occurred just after the band won "all superiors" (the highest contest honor) at state band competition in Jackson.

Patrolman Robert E. Moody of the Mississippi Highway Patrol office in Jackson reported, "Two Bay High buses had just left Hinds County Junior College in Raymond."

"Three miles east of Hinds on Hwy. 18 the buses encountered a pickup truck approaching from the west in the same lane with nothing but parking lights on," he said.

Hwy. 18 is a two-lane state highway.

"The first bus dodged the pickup, but the second bus driver didn't have time to avoid it and hit head-on," Moody stated.

Connie J. Kennedy of Jackson, driver of the pickup, is in Hinds General Hospital's Intensive Care Unit in Jackson.

Moody explained, "Kennedy has neck, back, internal and head injuries. Doctors are primarily concerned with her neck and back injuries."

The patrolman said Richard Hill of Raymond, pickup truck owner and a passenger in the vehicle was treated for a "busted lip."

"Kennedy is charged with reckless driving. Hill was drunk," the patrolman reported.

"I asked for a blood sample from Kennedy, but the hospital said it wouldn't do any good because she had already received several transfusions," he noted.

"We found a couple of bottles of valium, but the drugs were apparently prescribed for Kennedy and Hill," Moody said.

The patrolman reported the pickup truck was totally demolished and the entire front end of the school bus was smashed.

"Several kids were taken to the hospital, but most of them were shook up more than anything and some fainted," Moody noted.

Band members treated at the hospital included Kelly Ladner, 16; Virginia Haas, 18; Kim Welch, 18;

Michelle Heitzman, 15; Melissa Higgins, 13; Beth Kelley, 15; Melinda Ward, 16; Lisa Montgomery, 15; and Wally Bourgeois, 13.

Bus driver Alfred H. Shephard, 28, of 455 Webster St. in Bay St. Louis was not injured in the mishap.

Several parents of band members have contacted The Sea Coast Echo praising the actions of bus drivers Albert Parker and Shephard.

Parent Joyce Raynaud, one of five parents on the bus involved in the accident, Tuesday reported, "We saw the bus in front of us slow down and veer off on to the road shoulder."

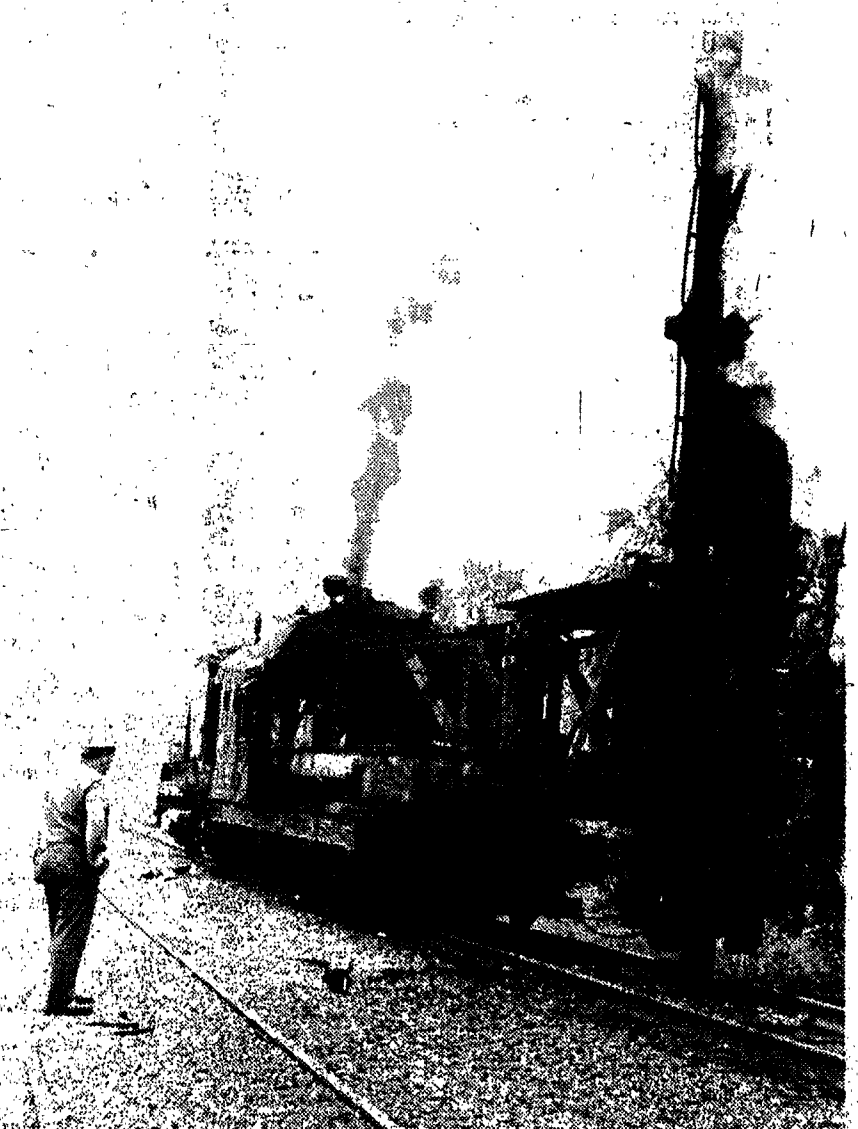

"Shephard used great judgement. He veered to the left to avoid hitting the first bus then turned to the right," she stated.

The parent explained Shephard's right turn resulted in the left front side of the bus hitting the pickup at a slight angle rather than directly head-on.

"All the kids were so happy because of their straight superiors and we were driving to a restaurant to celebrate with a steak dinner when this happened," Raynaud said.

Carolyn Hamilton, assistant band director was riding in the lead bus when the accident occurred and verified Raynaud's account.

"When we saw the pickup we knew it

Kiln residents startled

Army testing causes mysterious explosions

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
Residents in the Kiln area were startled by several loud explosions heard sporadically for two consecutive days recently.

The blasts, set by the U.S. Army Armament Research and Development Command (ARADCOM) at the National Space Technology Laboratories, were apparently amplified by atmospheric conditions.

Designs Roger of Bay St. Louis, ARADCOM resident chief, said Tuesday confirmed his office set the explosions and reported he visited a Kiln resident who feared the blasts would damage his home.

"Atmospheric conditions do dictate how sound propagates," he stated.

"A cooler weather the upper atmosphere has a thermal layer at about 40,000 feet causing sound waves to bounce back down, but in warmer weather these sound waves tend to travel out into the atmosphere and dissipate," he explained.

"If temperatures are uniform in all atmospheric layers or if it's warmer near the surface, sound waves will dissipate," Roger added.

"Most of the time people object to an explosion because it scares them," he said.

"Nearby residents will hear and feel some explosions, but not to the point of being involved in the testing operation or being won't damage a structure," Roger stated.

"Sometimes seismic testing in oil and gas exploration damages structures," he cited.

Roger reported one recent incident where ARADCOM testing was blamed for mudying a water well. He said an

Fires burn two school sections

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Some 1,280 acres of Hancock County School District forest land burned during a rash of arson-related woods fires which devastated some 20,000 acres in the county recently.

Rand Riedrich, county forester, reported Saturday morning at a County School Board meeting that fires burned Section 16-5-14 near the Necaise Crossing Community causing moderate marketable tree damage and Section 16-6-14 near the Standard Community inflicting light timber losses.

The area forester said both sections were scheduled for control burning by the Mississippi Forestry Commission, but "woods arsonists took care of that job."

The commission is responsible for managing the county school district's forest lands.

"Damage to the two sections wasn't that bad, but the fire got a little too hot near Necaise Crossing and burned some timber," he noted.

The board authorized $444 and $587 payments to the forestry commission for control burning Section 16-7-15 and Section 16-7-14 as requested by Riedrich.

In other business at the 9 a.m. regular meeting in the D.M. Russell Sr. Youth Court Center, the board:

Bayou La Croix plant application dropped

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Manager of a Bay St. Louis concrete plant has withdrawn a permit request with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to place fill near Bayou LaCroix for relocation of the mining operation.

Attorneys representing Industrial Ready Mix and Supplies Co., Inc. on US-90 in September applied for a Corps permit to place 300 cubic yards of sandy-clay fill on a five-acre site just northeast of the Bayou LaCroix Hwy. 603 bridge for construction of a portable concrete plant.

The company planned to lease the waterfront acreage from Cinque Bambini Partnership of Hancock County.

Johnny Walker, plant general manager, reported the company might also operate a shell sales operation at the bayou site.

In October some five bayou residents filed objections to the proposed plant location with the Corps' Mobile Area Office.

Last year the Bay St. Louis concrete firm was subject of a City Council meeting where merchants near the plant complained of dust blowing from the US-90 operation.

A Corps spokesman in Mobile recently reported, "We received a letter from Walker dated Jan. 2, 1981. The letter states, 'Please cancel our request on the proposed concrete plant location.'"

The spokesman noted that in February the Corps sent Walker a letter stating his permit was cancelled as requested.

"We received letters from various individuals objecting to the plant location, but we did not have any rebuttal statements from the concrete plant representatives," the spokesman added.

Other action by the Corps in February included:

—Issuing an After-the-Fact Permit Feb. 26 to Ursula O. Crawford for a bulkhead, boat ramp, walkway and fill on an unnamed canal of Bayou Galere in Hancock County;

—Authorizing a General Permit Feb. 24 to Dr. L.R. Bryant for a bulkhead on Pleasure Bayou in Bay St. Louis;

—Authorizing a General Permit Feb. 24 to J.R. Arbogast for a bulkhead on Bayou Gallere in Bay St. Louis;

—Authorizing a General Permit Feb. 24 to John E. Bryant for a bulkhead in Bayou Gallere;

"That problem has been corrected," he added.

Since then, other problems have developed at Cape Kennedy, however reports from NASA officials at the site state the Friday launching should not be affected.

The first manned space shuttle launch including astronauts John Young and Robert Crippen is scheduled to orbit the earth for 54.5 hours and then land at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

"There are other alternatives for a landing location in case there are bad weather conditions at Edwards, but that is the scheduled spot," James stated.

To James, the landing is going to be the most exciting part.

He explained that the shuttle will receive its major thrust through three main engines by burning liquid hydrogen and oxygen contained in the external tank.

"That tank will be drop off after the fuel is exhausted and the orbiter is about 75 miles above the earth's surface," he said.

"The tank supplies fuel to the three main engines and after it drops off the three main engines will exert no more power."

James said additional engines will power the orbiter while in space, but upon reentry, the orbiter will have to land with no power at all.

"I think that is pretty exciting," he added.

David Jones, NSTL information specialist, said Wednesday network coverage of the launch Friday morning will be monitored on a five-foot television screen at the NSTL Visitors Center.

"Once the launch is completed, the action will switch to the command center in Houston," Jones added.

"NASA's NSTL public information director, Mack Herring will be in Houston and we hope to establish a telephone link with him to keep visitors informed of the shuttle's progress from there," Jones added.

He said the "shuttle launch watch" at

Hancock board views nuclear crisis plan

By BRENT MACEY

Robert (Bobby) Boudin, Hancock County Civil Defense director presented each member of the county's board of supervisors a 'Crisis Relocation Plan' to be implemented in the event of a nuclear attack.

Boudin urged the members at their meeting Monday in the Hancock County Courthouse to read the approximately 100 page manual 'now, because there will not be time during the actual crisis.'

He informed board members that Hancock County is currently considered a low risk area and noted that rating will change with completion of the Army Ammunition Plant being built at the National Space Technology Laboratories.

Upon completion of that plant, Hancock County will be considered a high risk area, Boudin said.

Boudin informed the board that some 18,500 people from Harrison County, already considered a high risk area, are scheduled to be moved to Hancock County if there is a nuclear attack.

He said citizens of Hancock County will be relocated to the NSTL area 'where there is a system of underground tunnels which will provide protection not considering a direct hit.'

Boudin said a two to three day period is established time for relocation.

The manual, produced by the Mississippi Civil Defense Council in Jackson, lists areas which will be used as fallout shelters in Hancock County. Boudin said he has been studying buildings in Hancock County for the last two years to determine which ones can be used for that purpose.

The manual depicts how those buildings and others can be converted into fallout shelters.

Also included in the manual are ways in which individual homes can be secured for protection against radiation.

Illustrations depict methods of banking dirt against homes and correct ways to dig out under home foundations to provide protection from radiation.

Also included are meals and what to expect for food during the crisis, what business and establishments will prepare food and who will cater that food.

In other business, the board passed a resolution requesting local power companies not to connect homes to electricity if that home owner cannot present a building permit.

James Pfeiffer, board secretary, said the motion was adopted to protect the county from losing flood protection insurance in the event a home owner builds on land which is below the flood plane level without obtaining a permit.

Also during the Monday meeting, the board:

—Approved leasing 4.75 acres of land in the Catahoula Community for $1 a month on which Beat Four Supervisor Sam Pernicaro plans to begin construction of a ball park;

—Heard a report from Mary Caillier, secretary treasurer of the Hancock County Park Commission, that prices for camping in the park will increase beginning at the end of April. Caillier said primitive camping facilities will increase from $2 to $3 per night, trailer camper prices will increase from $4 to $5 and campers with air conditioning requiring electricity will increase from $4 to $6 a night;

—Adopted a resolution approving engineers Broadway and Seals to prepare a preapplication for obtaining Coastal Energy Impact Funds needed to repair South Beach Boulevard and redredge the sand beach.

—Accepted the low bid of $32,900 from Stribling-Puckett Inc. of Gulfport for a backhoe for Beat Five;

—Accepted the only bid of $1,633 dollars from Ray Finch's Construction of Bay St. Louis for materials needed to construct a 30 by 30 foot six inch concrete slab including reinforcements and plumbing for the Bay Side Fire Department.

—Accepted a low bid of $1,860 from Allphase Electric Supply Company of Gulfport for lights and light fixtures needed at the new ball park in Beat Three.

—Approved appointing Hancock County Prosecutor John Genin as the county Youth Court Prosecutor investigation revealed nearby seismic explosions caused the damage.

"However, the government is willing to pay for damage if it has caused it," Koger said.

The Aaradcom operation is the only U.S. installation testing explosives, propellants and pyrotechnics in 'standard military explosives' to determine 'safety separation' distances within munition plants.

Aaradcom, which employs four civilians, has been testing munitions at an old Navy bombing range in the NSTL Test Site for some 12 years. Computer Science Corp. is test contractor working with Army Explosives Ordnance personnel.

Aaradcom headquarters are at Pictinny Arsenal in Dover, N.J.

Koger explained, "Our testing area is a converted bombing range located in the northern area of the test site. We safety test bulk munitions—standard military explosives."

"Usually we test a modified round so a manufacturer can determine safe separation distance in a munitions plant," Koger stated.

The office chief said test rounds are not fired through weapons, but are 'surface static' tested in 'bulk or loaded' capacity.

"There are all sorts of testing operations. Some are environmental which test effects of the elements on explosives. Ballistic research laboratories actually utilize weaponry to test explosives," Koger reported.

"All of our testing is production and safety related," he reiterated.

"We'll set a round or a box of explosives at ground level, sometimes in simulated production equipment, to test blast effects," Koger noted.

"Much of our testing is non-explosive," he added. Koger explained that gun, rifle and artillery propellants are tested as well as pyrotechnics which produce smoke or light.

The office chief said no gas or atomic devices are tested here by Aaradcom.

"Our job is gross science in a way. We also test shape charges like those to be built at the Mississippi Army Ammunition Plant under construction here," he noted.

"We tested some of these charges for the plant so the manufacturer could determine a safe separation distance for his operation," Koger reported.

"Munitions is one of the safest industries in the world. Due to the type of material handled, plant managers are extremely safety conscious," he added.

The many honors received by the Bay High Tiger Pride Band are a tribute to the band instructors, students and supporters. Too bad their weekend journey to Jackson had to be marred by a head-on collision, according to reports, involving one of the busses and a pick-up truck.

We are happy no one was killed in the accident south of Jackson, and hope a speedy recovery for those injured.

There were many anxious parents and friends awaiting the return of the band members and escorts Saturday night and Sunday morning.

The Bay-Waveland Humane Society will have a Sweet and Sour Chicken Dinner Saturday night from 5 to 8 p.m. at the Waveland Civic Center.

The cost per dinner will only be $3 and we understand that some of the Master Chefs of the area are preparing the chicken.

The main reason for this fund raising dinner is for the Humane Society's spay-neuter program.

The service where the Humane Society helps in conjunction with our local veterinarians and animal owners over the years is beginning to show in a reduction of the number of unwanted animals.

We realize much more has to be done and that is the reason for this fund raiser.

We hope everyone will attend and help this very worthy cause.

See you Saturday night.

Congratulations are in order for two young community men involved in finances.

Charles (Chuck) Breath III was elected to assistant branch officer at Hancock Bank's US-90 branch.

Phillip A. Ryan Jr., vice-president and treasurer of Peoples Federal Savings and Loan Association has been elected to the association's board of directors.

We are sure both these young men are deserving of their new offices.

The Bourgeois-Stieffel-Ray American Legion Post No. 77 of Waveland will host the National Commander of the American Legion.

Commander Michael J. Kogut, a New York native, is scheduled on April 29 at the Waveland Post.

We feel it is a very high honor for Waveland to have the American Legion's national commander.

HAPPY PURCHASE—Aimee Ellis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Ellis, holds tight her "Farm and Factory" purchased at the White Elephant Sale Saturday sponsored by the employees of Hancock General Hospital. A spokesman at HGH reports that $300 was made during the sale. The proceeds are going to refurbishing patient rooms. A $1.98 Beauty Contest is being planned in early May by the HGH employees. Persons interested in being a contestant (male or female) should contact Jeannie Rutherford Moran at 467-9081.

CONSUMER REPORT

Office of Bill Allain, Attorney General

Imitation products seem to be on a rise today states Attorney General Bill Allain. Allain stated that the biggest problem confronting many consumers and businesses alike is that the imitation products so closely resemble the established brand name that it is difficult for them to distinguish between the two. These imitators attempt to take advantage of the public by passing low quality, inferior merchandise, making the consumer think he or she is getting the authentic brand. Manufacturers of the imitation goods capitalize on the advertisements, packaging, and the reputation of legitimate products. These unscrupulous businesses design their products so carefully, that at a glance, the two goods look identical, and only the careful shopper can tell the difference. Frequently copied products include cosmetics, jewelry, jeans, pantyhose and cassette tapes.

The imitation product does not always undersell the known brand-name good. Often the consumer pays the same price or higher for the imitation. Sellers have been known to mix the imitation goods in with the established brands to even further fool the shopper.

Imitations are bad for reputable businesses because these imitations misrepresent quality to the unsuspecting consumer. This misrepresentation can, in fact, be fraudulent, and the consumer has the right to be protected from such practices. To protect yourself from being trapped into buying imitation products, carefully check the advertisements and labels of goods before purchasing.

For additional information contact your Attorney General Bill Allain, Consumer Protection Division, P. O. Box 220, Jackson, Mississippi, 39205.

"BEWARE OF WANDERING HOME CONTRACTORS"

Attorney General Bill Allain is warning Mississippians to be wary of wandering home repair contractors who are beginning to surface in the state due to the early spring like weather.

According to Allain, information from the Consumer Protection Division of the Attorney General's Office shows that Mississippians are often taken advantage of by contractors who claim to be painters, carpenters, and roofers. What appears to be fast and cheap repair work turns out inferior and expensive. These so-called contractors often work on advance-pay basis and have no intention of doing quality work. Many times the work is unfinished or never started.

According to the Attorney General, Mississippians can guard against contractor problems by following these suggestions:

1. Check the reputation of a contractor with the Better Business Bureau, banks, building or trade associations, city building permit departments, or friends familiar with the contractor.
2. Get the names and addresses of several contractors. An effective approach is to ask friends and neighbors who have previously hired a contractor. It is risky to deal with an unfamiliar company or individual.

3. Get a firm, written estimate with a specific description of the work to be done, the type and quality of materials to be used, and include the total cost of the job. Never hire a contractor who has not come to the house to appraise the work.

4. Ask for a written contract based on his estimate. Read the contract carefully. Have an attorney or trustworthy person review the contract before you sign. Be certain that the contract includes: the name, address, and phone number of the contractor; a complete description of the work; a specific description of the materials to be used; a provision requiring your written approval for any changes in the agreed-to plans and specifications; a guarantee containing clearly stated terms that covers all promised items; a provision setting forth the total cost of the work and the specific terms of payment for materials and labor. The contract must include the signature of the contractor. Never sign any contract containing blank space.

5. Never agree to a contract calling for substantial payments on the total amount before work is begun unless there is a legitimate reason known to you. Try to arrange payments in installments as portions of the work are satisfactorily completed.

6. Never rely on oral guarantees. If a guarantee is not written it is generally worthless.

The "Federal Truth in Lending Law" also provides a cancellation period. This law gives you three days to cancel if the contractor received a security interest, such as a mortgage, on your home as part of the transaction.

BUYING CLUBS—ALL THAT GLITTERS IS NOT GOLD

Attorney General Bill Allain warns consumers to be careful when investing their money in buying clubs that boast of great savings on name brand products. All of us look for means to save money and when we are offered ways of doing it, we usually jump at the opportunity. Operators of fraudulent "Buyers Clubs" or "Buying Services" know this.

Attorney General Allain says that these buying club advertisements state that "because of their large memberships special prices for products can be negotiated with manufacturers. Supposedly these giant savings are then passed on to the club members."

All brand products are advertised as available through such clubs — food, appliances, autos, insurance, home furnishings, unfortunately, the claims made by the promoters of these clubs often have no relationship to what they are actually able to deliver.

Sometimes, advertising for buying clubs is designed to attract special interest groups such as the elderly, doctors, teachers, or government workers.

In some instances, consumers are tricked and pressured into joining a buying club. Sometimes they receive notice in the mail that they have won or may win a free gift. When they respond trying to find out what they won or how to win, they discover that they must listen to a sales pitch which usually contains exaggerated claims.

Handgun control lobby president seeks new members

April 3, 1981
Editor
Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

Our President lies wounded, felled by a bullet fired from a "Saturday Night Special." This favorite weapon of the assassin was easily obtained at a Dallas pawnshop.

In all but one of the eleven assassinations and attempted assassinations of Presidents or Presidential candidates, the assassin used a handgun. Presidents Lincoln, Garfield, and McKinley were slain. Candidate Robert Kennedy was killed.

Governor George Wallace is crippled. In September 1975 alone, President Ford's life was threatened twice by assassins wielding handguns. Now President Reagan has been shot.

Must we bury another President before the Congress acts to pass an effective national handgun control law? Together we can make the Congress act now to control handguns. Join with us today.

Waveland Players applaud Echo coverage of latest production

April 6, 1981
Letters to The Editor
The Sea Coast Echo

Dear Sir:

Many thanks to the Sea Coast Echo for the splendid publicity afforded the Waveland Players' most recent production, "Deadwood Dick or, the Game of Gold."

If community theatre had to rely solely on its own artistic merit for success, it simply could not survive. Word-of-mouth advertising helps, of course; but this requires substantial attendance at the first few performances.

Thanks to the Sea Coast Echo, and to other media coverage in the area, we had capacity crowds at virtually every one of our five performances at the Waveland Civic Center; and standing room only at the last two.

As a consequence, "Deadwood Dick" has been far and away the most successful production in the short history of the Waveland Players.

We are currently in the planning stages for our next production, a Variety Show with the working title: "Cabaret—Rather Southern," tentatively scheduled for early July.

Audition dates and times for this musical-comedy "extravaganza" will be announced in the near future.

Thanks again for your contribution to our success, and we look forward to a long and enjoyable working relationship with you and your fine staff.

Sincerely,
Ted Stechmann and Terry Simpson, for

B-1 BOMBER NEEDED

By EDWIN FEULNER

One of the great problems with which CIA Director William Casey must deal is the over-reliance of his agency in recent years on gizmos and gadgets, and its under-reliance on people.

As intelligence master Amrom Katz has noted, while the sophisticated electronic eavesdropping devices and supersensitive cameras and space-age satellites may be important, they are no better than the people who analyze the data the spy satellites collect.

The same case, I think can be made for a new generation of manned penetrating bombers.

There are some, both within and outside the defense establishment, who argue that manned bombers are obsolete. Their space-age vision of war involves only a galaxy of pre-programmed war-making machines — killer satellites, death rays, and missiles of every description. According to the military modernists, a manned bomber is as out of touch with reality as the Red Baron, a view which is not only unrealistic, but perhaps fatalistic.

In other words, critics of the bomber reject the possibility — wrongly, I hope — that a war still might be fought which would involve something less than "them" lobbing a volley of missiles at us, and us lobbing a volley of missiles back at them. They reject the possibility that after committing our strategic forces to combat, we might change our minds, or reach a negotiated settlement before the doomsday scenario unfolds.

In fact, it seems they reject anything but all-out war, a war of machines rather than men.

While this is hardly a prevailing view, it gives substance to those who argue against a new generation of manned bombers to replace the fading B-52.

It is precisely the flexibility that a manned bomber offers that makes it necessary, however.

Unlike missiles, bombers are "slow to take offense," as strategic expert Francis Hoer has noted. Missiles deliver their weapons payloads in a matter of minutes, but a bomber force takes 6-10 hours.

While this may sound like a negative, it is really a plus, because this means bombers can be recalled if ordered by the National Command Authority, providing U.S. defense planners with the option to negotiate a de-escalation.

of hostilities before the bombers reach their targets.

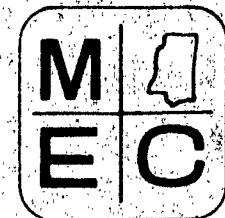

In addition to its command flexibility, the manned bomber also gives the U.S. target flexibility. Missiles are usually pre-targeted. A bomber, on the other hand, can be sent wherever it is most needed, can be redirected in mid-course, and can be used to hit strategic targets that the enemy might re-use after our initial strike.

A final advantage to the manned bomber: it can carry an extraordinary mix of weapons — short-range attack missiles, gravity bombs, conventional munitions, and air-launched cruise missiles.

This mix of weapons, say the editors of the National Security Record, enables the U.S. bomber force to suppress enemy air defenses with the use of long- and short-range missiles, and then "penetrate deeply" into enemy territory to strike interior targets.

For those of us who reject the doomsday scenario, it is obvious that a new manned bomber is needed to replace the aging B-52s. The proposed B-1 appears to be the best bet to do the job. The sooner Congress moves ahead, the better.

Arcade owner asks city council for beer permit

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.

Owner of a Beach Boulevard arcade appeared at a Bay St. Louis City Council meeting Tuesday night in a continued attempt to secure a beer permit.

Lamar and Collette Ladner, owners and operators of the Pinball Palace in the Downtown area, recently filed a $200,000 civil action suit against the city alleging harassment and denial of First Amendment rights.

Collette Ladner Tuesday repeatedly asked the council and Mayor Larry Bennett why she has not been issued a license, but received no clear reply.

In a written request presented to council members, she states, "I presented Police Chief Douglas Williams on Feb. 23 an application for issuance of a beer permit which he refused to sign. I then went to Bennett asking for his permission to have it signed. He also refused. I am now in accordance with proper procedure appealing to the members of the council to recommend that this application be signed."

Joseph Gex, board attorney, said, "All the council can do is recommend to the mayor a license be approved or disapproved."

Ladner noted a signature by Williams and Hancock County Sheriff Ronald A. Peterson is all which is needed for a permit.

She added that Peterson has agreed to sign such a permit.

Councilman James Thriffley stated, "It's my understanding that if they are refused a license they have a right to appeal to the council and we have the right to override the action of the mayor."

"We did vote to give Kelvin Schulz a license," Thriffley said.

Several months ago Schulz requested a beer license for a convenience store adjacent to the Bay Theater at the corner Beach Boulevard and Washington Street.

An argument then erupted between Thriffley and Gex with the two debating the events which transpired regarding the Schulz permit request.

Schulz has also filed suit against the city.

Gex said, "Alright Jimmy, you run it!"

Thriffley explained how the council had then voted not to grant Schulz a permit.

"I fail to see what we are doing here. Do we as a council have right to say these people are entitled to a license?" the councilman asked.

Gex replied, "As I said in the paper I think they are entitled to a permit."

Council President Peter Benvenuti noted, "This council doesn't have any authority to say that a citizen can be issued a beer or business license."

Ladner reported, "Why is it on one occasion I spoke with the chief and he said he would do what the city fathers said?"

"All he had to do was sign the application, but he told me he had to talk with the Alcoholic Beverage Commission," she noted.

"Williams then had Patrolman Gordon Campbell bring our application back with a note saying he couldn't sign it," Ladner said.

"Then we filed a lawsuit. I went to see Williams and he says 'you've filed a lawsuit and if I sign the application it looks like we've done something wrong,'" she stated.

"Williams then said 'if I sign will you drop the lawsuit?'" Ladner said.

"I talked to Bennett and he said in view of the lawsuit he would have to talk to Gex about signing," she noted.

Gex said he did not know about the conversation with Williams.

Ladner stated, "It's strange I'm getting the runaround with just a beer permit."

Bennett said, "Mr. and Mrs. Ladner came in for a license and we discussed the possibility of putting a wall in..."

Ladner injected, "That has nothing to do with it."

Bennett shot back, "Lady, if you want me to have the application signed you'll have to take legal action to get it."

Ladner stated, "It sounds like a little vengeance to me."

Bennett then informed Ladner she could obtain the license from the State Tax Commission's Gulfport office without local approval.

Thriffley then offered a motion requesting the permit be granted. The motion died for lack of a second.

Benvenuti stated, "As long as this body doesn't have legal authority, I would not enter a recommendation. We have no authority and I don't want to get involved."

Councilman Fred Wagner said, "Simply by making applications to receive a license seems perfunctory if it's not automatic."

"A license should prove a need or community service. It seems part of the responsibility of the issuing authority and that authority should have sufficient information to make a judgement," Wagner stated.

"Is our law set up in a way that a person has to show cause for a value judgement?" he asked Gex.

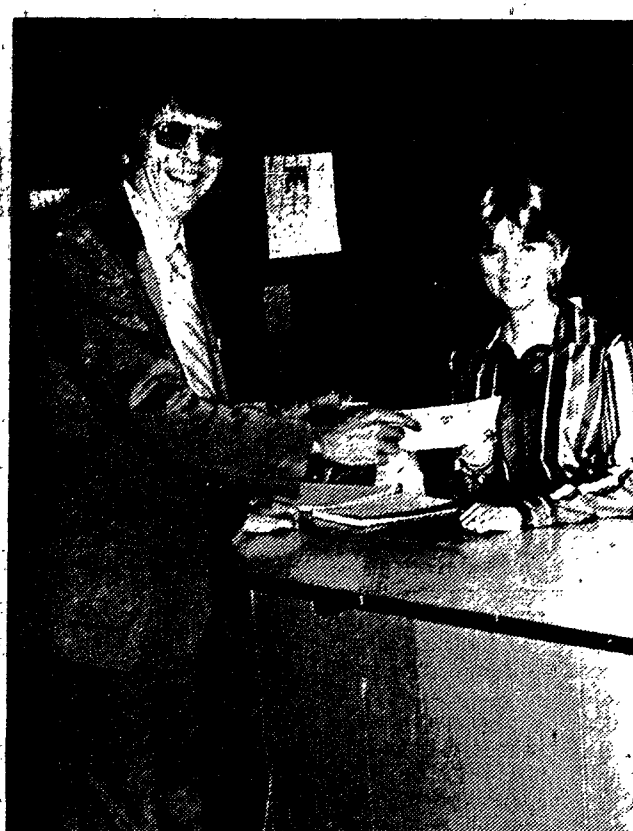

Gex replied, "It's not an automatic yes. The chief and the sheriff sign because it's an affidavit stating these persons are of good character and are operating a business in an area which is beneficial to the community."

"As Bennett pointed out she could skirt the whole issue and go to Gulfport," Gex added.

Ladner said, "This still doesn't say why Bennett and Williams won't sign."

Benvenuti stated, "The matter is closed."

Thriffley noted, "This is definitely a case of discrimination."

would either hit our bus or the second bus because the vehicle had no lights on and didn't make an effort to move out of the lane," Hamilton reported.

"Just after the truck hit the bus behind us Band Director Glen Page and I jumped off the bus and got the kids off the wrecked bus as soon as possible," she said.

"We were worrying about a gasoline explosion or a car rear-ending the bus. We had just come over a large hill and cars were stopped all over the roadway," she stated.

"The kids and parents all reacted very well and didn't panic," Hamilton added.

Page explained, "When the accident occurred all I could think about was a bus driver's film I saw showing a truck hitting a bus from behind. So we got everyone off the bus and well off the road right-of-way as soon as possible."

The band director also praised the relatively calm and cool attitude of parents and students involved.

Regarding Parker's actions, Page said, "Many people would have turned a bus over veering on to it's shoulder."

"If he hadn't gotten off the road the second bus, a van carrying instruments and two car loads of parents might have all piled into the back of us," he noted.

Page, Magee and Superintendent of Education J.D. McCullough of the Bay St. Louis Municipal Separate School District all praised Superintendent of Education Bill Moss of the Hinds County School District for providing a bus with two drivers to return students to Bay St. Louis that night.

Page reported the Hinds County sheriff offered to open a local restaurant to serve the shaken students.

Magee noted, "We are very appreciative to the good people of Hinds County and we feel good knowing there are nice folks there who were willing to help."

McCullough said he has not received any estimate of the bus' damage, but noted the pickup truck owner's insurance company would pay for all damages.

The Raymond Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the accident scene.

EARLIER SATURDAY

Hamilton reported the band received all superior ratings in marching, concert, sight reading, inspection, signal drum major and student conductor categories.

Page noted, "This is the first time Bay High's band has won straight superiors two years consecutively and the first year we have received superiors from every judge."

"Several of the judges said we were the best band of the day," he added.

Bay High's 55 member band competed with high school bands statewide with many bands consisting of more than 100 members each.

Hamilton said, "Drum Major Gary Adam, a senior, performed fantastically."

In an unrepresented gesture, the drum major judge left the judges box and walked on to the field to congratulate Adam on his performance.

Page reported, "The band has worked long and hard, and I'm very proud of them. I know we're the best band in our area, but now we want to be the best in the state."

Hamilton said the band's marching performance was a "corps style" show which ended with the tune "Ice Cream."

"During and after the show the band received standing ovations," the assistant director added.

Hamilton said in concert competition the band played Henderson Field, Passacaglia in E Flat and Anthem for Winds and Percussion.

She noted Adam was also student conductor.

Page reported Adam won five superior medals for his performance in a french horn quartet, percussion solo, as student conductor, drum major and was awarded a band medal.

FUNDS NEEDED

The band is still seeking funds to attend the Six Flags Over Georgia Band Contest in Atlanta at the end of this month.

Page noted, "We are getting close to the amount of money we need for the trip."

"As it stands now each band member will have pay $40 to participate in the competition," he said.

"The American Legion Posts, Hancock County Board of Supervisors and the City of Bay St. Louis have all contributed funds for this trip," Page reported.

"But we need more funds to defer costs," he added.

Vic Franckiewicz good management

Bay St. Louis must have good management in the mayor's office. There should be clear lines of authority for all city departments to operate efficiently and legally. Our present city employees can do a better job if they are properly organized.

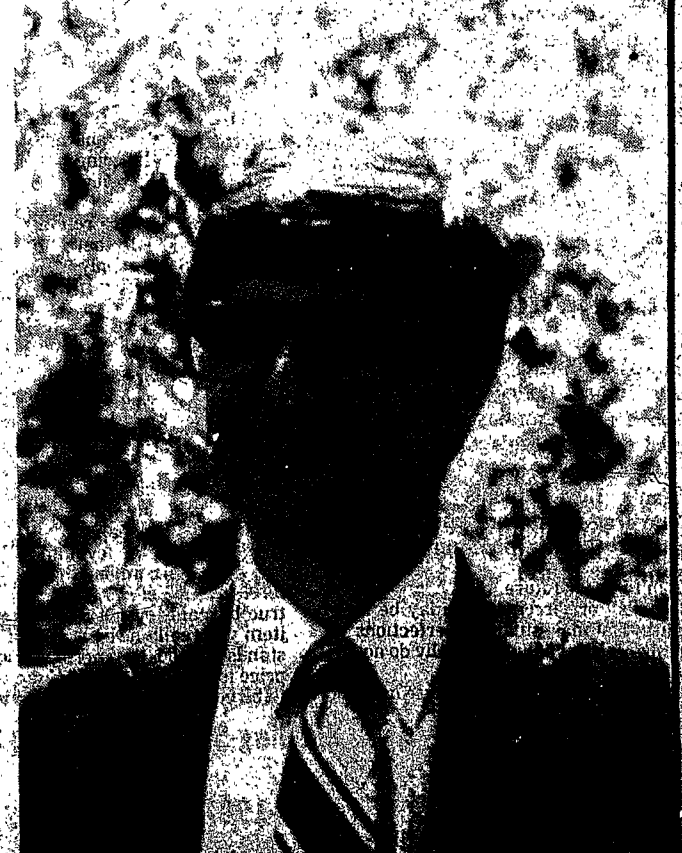

We have to cut unnecessary costs. "Blank check" construction contracts, poor engineering, equipment rental and equipment repairs are major areas of waste.

Establishing a routine maintenance schedule for drainage and utilities and improving street patching procedures will save on costly repairs, and will help improve the appearance of the city.

The savings from good management can help finance permanent improvements in the annexed area and in other parts of town. It is a mayor's job to propose new construction projects and to see that contractors and engineers are held responsible for their work.

Good management requires the mayor to communicate and cooperate with the city council and with the citizens at large. If we all work together, Bay St. Louis will be a better city.

Ole Miss research shows

Personality influences amphetamine effects

Personality may have as much influence as physical factors on the way amphetamines affect human behavior, according to scientists at The University of Mississippi Research Institute of Pharmaceutical Sciences and Department of Pharmacology.

Studies conducted at the school of Pharmacy's Primate Center show that animals react differently to equal doses of amphetamine based on their social rank.

The research, part of an ongoing study now in its fourth year, is funded by the National Institute on Drug Abuse. The research model is the stump-tail macaque, a species of monkey known for its highly structured social order.

Researchers chose the macaque as a model to demonstrate whether or not drugs, abused or prescribed, have detrimental effects on social behavior.

"There has been a tremendous amount of work with drugs of abuse in monkeys," said Dr. Marvin Wilson, project director and professor of pharmacology at Ole Miss. "Physiologically and etiologically, they're as close as we can get to humans." Ole Miss scientists tested the common belief that amphetamine increases aggression. Monkeys who already showed aggressive behavior became slightly more aggressive when repeatedly given low doses of amphetamine.

However, higher doses of the drug caused them to withdraw completely from social interaction.

In their studies with the macaque, researchers found that higher-ranking animals don't show the same effects when dosed with amphetamine as monkeys on the lower end of the hierarchy.

In one test, female monkeys were dosed with amphetamine and scientists observed what appeared to be a tremendous increase in presenting, a gesture that can indicate either sexual or submissive behavior.

However, they noted in this case the presenting was always directed toward higher-ranking animals, both male and female.

Low-ranking male monkeys who were dosed with the drug also showed an increase in presenting, but to a lesser extent than the females.

"What had previously been construed as sexual behavior could be an increase in submissive behavior," said Dr. John Bedford, who conducts the tests.

"We think that the drug is perhaps causing low-ranking animals to fear dominant animals," said Dr. Wilson. "In a simplistic way, the drug may be producing paranoia, as has been reported in humans."

Ole Miss scientists also examined the relationship between amphetamine use and appetite suppression. When researchers dosed separately caged monkeys and fed them, the animals did not appear hungry and did not eat.

When all the monkeys were put together and injected with the same dose, however, lower-ranking animals ate while higher-ranking ones did not.

In normal situations, only the higher-ranking monkeys would eat.

Following amphetamine injection, the more dominant animals either chose not to eat, or some other drug effect such as incessant grooming was incompatible with eating, Dr. Wilson said.

"Some of these things we're observing suggest that personality, as well as personal history, should be considered in prescribing behaviorally active drugs," Dr. Bedford said. "If drug effects vary as a function of personality, we need to know."

Ochsner physician monitoring infant sudden death syndrome

Pediatricians in the neonatal unit of the Ochsner Foundation Hospital in New Orleans have begun a program of administering "pneumograms" to some infants, both premature and full term, in an effort to ascertain which babies may be vulnerable to the sudden infant death syndrome.

In the hopes of heading off the dreaded SIDS, some 60 babies have already been tested to determine whether they have "sleep apnea," that is, whether or not the infants "forget to breathe" for longer than 15 seconds at a time while they are asleep.

"A certain degree of periodic breathing is not uncommon, particularly in premature infants," said Dr. Dian Denny, the Ochsner pediatrician who heads the study.

When the non-breathing intervals are prolonged the condition is described as "apnea."

Infants are tested if they are premature babies with apnea for which all other causes have been ruled out; if they are full term with apnea for which no other cause has been determined, or if they are siblings of a SIDS baby or a baby who has had a "near miss" episode, Dr. Denny says.

Dr. Denny explains that sleep apnea occurs in both full term and premature babies and that the pneumogram helps identify those babies whose breathing difficulties might prove fatal.

The pneumogram is produced by connecting the baby to a cardio-respiratory monitor equipped with a recorder. This recorder produces a 12 to 24 hour tape which records both the heart rate and the respiration pattern of the infant.

When run through a computer the printout can compare the two basic functions of breathing and heart rate.

"Babies who would be regarded as vulnerable to sudden infant death syndrome are those showing a rate of periodic breathing difficulty on three percent of the total tape," Dr. Denny explains. "In those cases where it is indicated, we may elect to start the infants on theophyllin, a drug which has been found to be effective in dealing with sleep apnea in both premature and full term babies when administered in carefully worked out dosages," she stated. The drug is usually used through the first four to six months, the period of peak risk, because it seems to job the center in the brain which controls breathing to continuing doing so," she adds.

Anastasio named president of Marine Concrete Structures

Frank L. Anastasio Jr. has been elected president by the board of directors of Marine Concrete Structures, Inc.

The New Orleans-based company is the largest builder in the United States of precast, prestressed concrete gravity structures used in the offshore oil and gas industry.

The company operates its construction yards at Port Bienville in Hancock County and a concrete component plant in Metairie, La.

The company also fabricates and erects precast, prestressed concrete multi-story buildings in the New Orleans area.

"The increased oil and gas activity in the Gulf along with the increase in our type of commercial building construction presents us with a real growth opportunity during the next several years," said Anastasio.

Anastasio headed the MCS design team that developed the concrete gravity structures — the first seven are now on site — at the LOOP terminal facilities on shore in coastal Louisiana.

He joined the company ten years ago as a project engineer and was vice-president in charge of sales. As a design engineer, Anastasio was actively involved in developing the first concrete gravity structure placed in U.S. offshore waters.

He is a graduate of Louisiana State University School of Engineering with a major in structural design.

Former Bay Patrolman now assistant inspector

By BRENT MACEY
A 17 year veteran Mississippi highway patrolman who served as a rookie in the Hancock County area, has recently been promoted to assistant inspector in the Gulfport District.

Joe Ray McNeal, 42 of Perkinston and a former Bay St. Louis resident was top scorer among 12 officers competing for the promotion.

He will be one of four assistant inspectors who aid in the supervision of uniform patrol activities in the southern six-county district.

McNeal said he was graded by an interview-oral examination board comprised of fellow officers.

He stated the examination was based on five factors, including past evaluation by superior officers, basic knowledge, appearance and ability to communicate verbally, years of experience and former grade, and past record with the highway patrol.

McNeal served his first two years for the highway patrol beginning in 1964 as a rookie patrolman in the Hancock County area.

His daughter, Christy Lynn McNeal of Bay St. Louis, is currently a ninth grade student at Bay Junior High School.

From Bay St. Louis McNeal moved to Biloxi where he served two years as a patrol officer.

In 1968 he was stationed in the Ocean Springs area where he served as a patrolman for 10 years.

In 1978 McNeal was promoted to instructor at the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers Training Academy in Pearl where he worked one and one-half years as an instructor and legal officer.

INSPECTOR JOE RAY MCNEAL

McNeal said he trained city police officers, deputy sheriffs, wildlife conservation officers and others, including university security police officers and Mississippi Highway Patrol cadets at that time.

Following that position, McNeal was moved to acting director of training at the academy for approximately five months and then to the position of senior instructor.

Jan. 1, 1981 McNeal resigned to return to his native Vancleve where he worked as a regular patrol officer in the Ocean Springs area until his current promotion.

McNeal now wears the identical K-2 badge worn by the late William P. Kenny, former assistant inspector from Bay St. Louis, killed on duty in an automobile accident in 1967.

"I'm very proud to wear this badge," McNeal said. "He was a very good friend and I worked with him as a rookie when I lived in Bay St. Louis."

McNeal attended Broome Memorial High School in George County, and received an associate criminal justice degree from Jackson County Junior College. He served in the U.S. Navy Seabee Unit in the South Pacific from 1956-59.

McNeal received a LLB degree from LaSalle Law School; participated in a three-month accident investigation course sponsored by the National Police Officer's Association, and a year long course in Police Officers' Law at LaSalle Law School.

He received special training at Officer Survival Schools in Nashville, Tenn. and Northwestern University Traffic Institute in Orlando, Fla. He attended a National Rifle Association sponsored firearms instructors' school and an Ole Miss Law School seminar in Jackson, and a civil liability law seminar in New Orleans, La.

He was the recipient of a Good Arrest Award from the National Police Officer's Association.

A member of the Mississippi Law Enforcement Officers' Association, McNeal is also a member of Tennessee-Mississippi Sheriffs and Peace Officer's Association, a Mason and an Elk.

State nixes Hwy. 603 four-laning rumors

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
The Mississippi Highway Department is not planning to four-lane Hwy. 603 at least for several years. Rumors have been circulating that the department is eyeing four-laning the highway from US-90 to the Hwy. 43 junction.

Frank Santmyer, highway department southeast district engineer in Hattiesburg, recently stated, "Four-laning Hwy. 603 is not in the department's immediate plans that we know of, but this could come into play several years from now."

The district engineer explained there are not 'any definite plans' for four-laning the highway because highway department funds 'are committed for several years' to various projects.

"We keep traffic counts on roads throughout the district. When we think about spending money we refer those traffic counts," Santmyer explained.

"If we're going to four-lane any highway in the district we try to pick the highest priorities," he added.

Regarding the rumors, Santmyer said, "It's been mentioned before, but naturally people in an area are interested in this."

"In every district we have people interested in road improvement, but we have to pick the thoroughfares which are most congested," he stated.

In reference to Hwy. 603 construction work now underway from the Hwy. 43 junction (Cuevas Junction) north to Hwy. 53, Santmyer noted, "Crews are putting down several layers of asphalt and widening the road from 20 feet to 24 feet."

When asked why large holes were forming in parts of the newly paved roadway, Santmyer noted the holes were in leveling layers which are patched before the final surface is placed.

Santmyer said he did not know the exact date of completion or construction costs for the Hwy. 603 project.

Regarding low and narrow shoulders resulting from overlying and widening the district engineer reported, "We will fill and widen the shoulders somewhat but we can't widen very much."

Santmyer explained drains underneath the roadway would have to be extended and in some areas additional right-of-way would have to be purchased to accommodate wider shoulders.

"I don't think the narrower shoulders will be a safety hazard. It's better have more pavement rather than shoulder," he stated.

"If someone has a flat tire on this widened road they could pull over and partially park on the pavement," Santmyer suggested.

The district engineer said three layers of asphalt are being smoothed on Hwy. 603 to upgrade load carrying capacity from 50,000 pounds to 73,000 pounds.

Santmyer explained the first 'leveling course' removes waves in the roadway, the second course smooths irregularities and adds thickness for more load capacity, and the final 'less dense' layer provides a riding surface.

"In about 1956 we paved that section of Hwy. 603 with just a three-fourths inch rock surface," he noted.

Santmyer revealed that highway department inspectors are monitoring the road improvement work.

"Residents should stop and talk with highway department inspectors if they have questions about the project. They will tell anyone what is involved in the roadway work," he recommended.

When asked if a recently passed state law increasing highway load limits from 73,000 pounds to 80,000 pounds will increase road damage, Santmyer replied, "Truckers have been violating state laws by carrying 130,000 pound and 140,000 pound loads for years, so I don't expect any increased maintenance problems."

Give Pride a Try in Army Reserve

Civilians serving part-time in the Army Reserve have the opportunity to use their skills, to earn an extra paycheck or to develop new skills and a sense of pride.

Millions of Americans feel unfulfilled in their jobs. They may be lacking adequate pay, suitable hours, a sense of productivity. Something is missing.

While it's not a panacea for all working woes, the Army Reserve is bringing increased personal satisfaction to tens of thousands of workers. A part-time job of 38 days a year in the Army Reserve provides tangible benefits such as a second paycheck, low cost life insurance and other benefits, plus a chance to learn new skills or use one that you have learned from prior military service.

But it also provides an intangible benefit that is hard to duplicate. That is the feeling of pride associated with being a part of the United States Army.

Army Reservists develop a 'Pride in Self' that comes from learning a new skill and being able to apply it to worthwhile projects.

There's also a sense of "Pride in Community." Reservists realize by serving in the military in the local area and participating in Army Reserve sponsored community service activities.

On a larger scale there's pride associated with being part of a team that's ready and able should the need arise. Reservists train to maintain that level of readiness.

And there's "Pride in Heritage." Army Reservists have roots on the military family tree that reach back to the Minute-men and state militia of more than 200 years ago.

One remedy for workers who suffer from job dissatisfaction is to pick up a second job in an organization full of challenges and full of pride. The Army Reserve is such an organization. "Pride in Service" is a way of life in the Army Reserve. Be all you can be—become a member of the Army Reserve.

Waveland updates firearm ordinance

By BRENT MACEY

The Waveland Board of Aldermen Tuesday updated two city ordinances concerning discharging firearms in city limits and parking on city streets.

Both ordinances were prepared by Lucien Gex, board attorney.

The fine for discharging firearms within city limits has been increased to a maximum $500 fine, no more than 90 days in jail, or both.

Alderman Barbara Rappold stated, "The city has grown to the point where we can no longer allow people to be target practicing in their back yards. One of those bullets may ricochet and I am afraid some young person wandering in the woods will become a victim."

The second ordinance approved by the city aldermen states vehicles now parked on city streets for more than five 'uninterrupted' days will be considered a 'nuisance' and will be impounded.

Also any car which is unable to run under its own power and parked on a city street for more than 24 hours will be subject to towing.

Owners will be subject to a $20 towing fee and also cost for storage.

Proof of ownership will be required before reclaiming the automobile, the ordinance states.

If the automobile is not claimed within a 30 day period then a public auction will be held with money from the auction going to general city funds.

Formerly the ordinance allowed uninterrupted parking for period of 15 days.

Also during the regularly scheduled meeting in the Waveland City Hall, the board:

—Took bids for demolition and clearing of seven parcels of land in the Middletown area under advisement;

—Took bids for rehabilitation of five homes in the Middletown area under advisement;

—Took under advisement three bids for a cab and chassis for a two ton garbage truck;

—Took under advisement a petition from citizens owning property off Fahey Street, Old Spanish Trail and Henderson Street, to have New York Street, an unused street, vacated. Questions arose if the city could vacate the street without having other citizens ask to have five other unused streets in that area also vacated. Alderman Herman Yarbrough stated some of the streets in question may have to be used by the city in the future to install a sewer lift station;

—Accepted the lowest possible bid for an air-conditioner-heater contingent upon finding if bids opened for that air-conditioner-heater eight months ago are still valid. Lowest bid eight months ago was a $2,115 by Monti Carver Plumbing Company of Bay St. Louis;

—Approved Mayor John Longo's signing of a Mutual Fire Aid Agreement to include Waveland with numerous other coastal cities;

—Approved a final $5,950 payment to R&T Construction Company of Gulfport for construction of Middletown Park;

—Accepted a $718 bid from Electrocom Inc. for a radio and power supply for the gas and water department.

Green Berets to stage meeting in Waveland

Chapter XXX of the Special Forces Association made up entirely of veterans and active members of the U.S. Army Special Forces (Green Beret) have scheduled a meeting Saturday, April 11 at Shelter One at Buccaneer Park in Waveland.

Henry Cook III, Bay St. Louis attorney and spokesman for the association, said some 75 members from Texas, Louisiana, Mississippi and Alabama are expected to attend the occasion.

Cook said almost all members are veterans of the Vietnam War with some serving multiple terms.

"I would like to invite the people of the Bay St. Louis and Waveland area to stop by, say hello and welcome these people to the area," Cook said.

"It would be nice to see some sort of show of support for their efforts in Vietnam," he added.

Cook said the meeting is meant to be both a social and business gathering for the association.

Cook is a former 18-year-veteran of the Green Beret.

Bay driver's exam station to relocate

By EDGAR PEREZ

The Mississippi Department of Public Safety reports, effective April 21, the Bay St. Louis driver's license station will be in the City-County Library on US-90.

E.D. Napier, of Collins, branch director of driver licensing in the state's Southern Region, said the move from the current location in the Hancock County Civil Defense office will provide better parking and access to the highway for road testing.

He said the patrol's driver license division has established examining stations in libraries in other counties, as well.

He noted the move is also expected to provide better facilities for the Oct. 1 implementation of affixing a color photo to the Mississippi Driver's license.

The official said eventually the stations will be capable of producing the license on the spot immediately after testing.

Examining officers John W. Miller of Poplarville and Bill Magnusen of Biloxi will be at the library station from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each Tuesday.

He noted driver license applicants may use the library's Ulmer Avenue entrance.

The examination station will be set up in the library conference room, Napier noted.

Saturday deadline

Special hours scheduled for registration

By ELLIS CUEVAS

The deadline for registration is noon Saturday for persons wishing to vote in the May Bay-St. Louis primary.

Edward Favre, city clerk, reports his office will be open from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday for persons interested in registering.

In addition, Favre said that Henry Otis, Circuit clerk, will also be open Saturday morning for persons not registered in the county.

In order for a person to be qualified to vote in the Bay election, he or she must be registered at both the Hancock County Courthouse and City Hall of Bay St. Louis at least 30 days before the election.

Deadline for party candidates will also be Saturday at noon, according to Favre.

The Bay primary election will be held on Tuesday, May 12, 1981. A general election will be held on June 2, 1981 with elected officials taking office on July 6, 1981.

Only two candidates have qualified as Independents.

Favre reports they are Thomas Clark and Herta Smith for District Three Council. The deadline for independent candidates was April 3.

"Bay St. Louis conducted a re-registration in 1977 and only persons who have not registered since then need to re-register."

"If you are in doubt as to whether you are registered or not, please give my office a call at 467-9060," Favre stated.

Soccer Tournament slated for Saturday

Approximately 200 area youths will participate in a post season soccer tournament set for 9 a.m. Saturday on the two fields behind St. Augustine Seminary in Bay St. Louis.

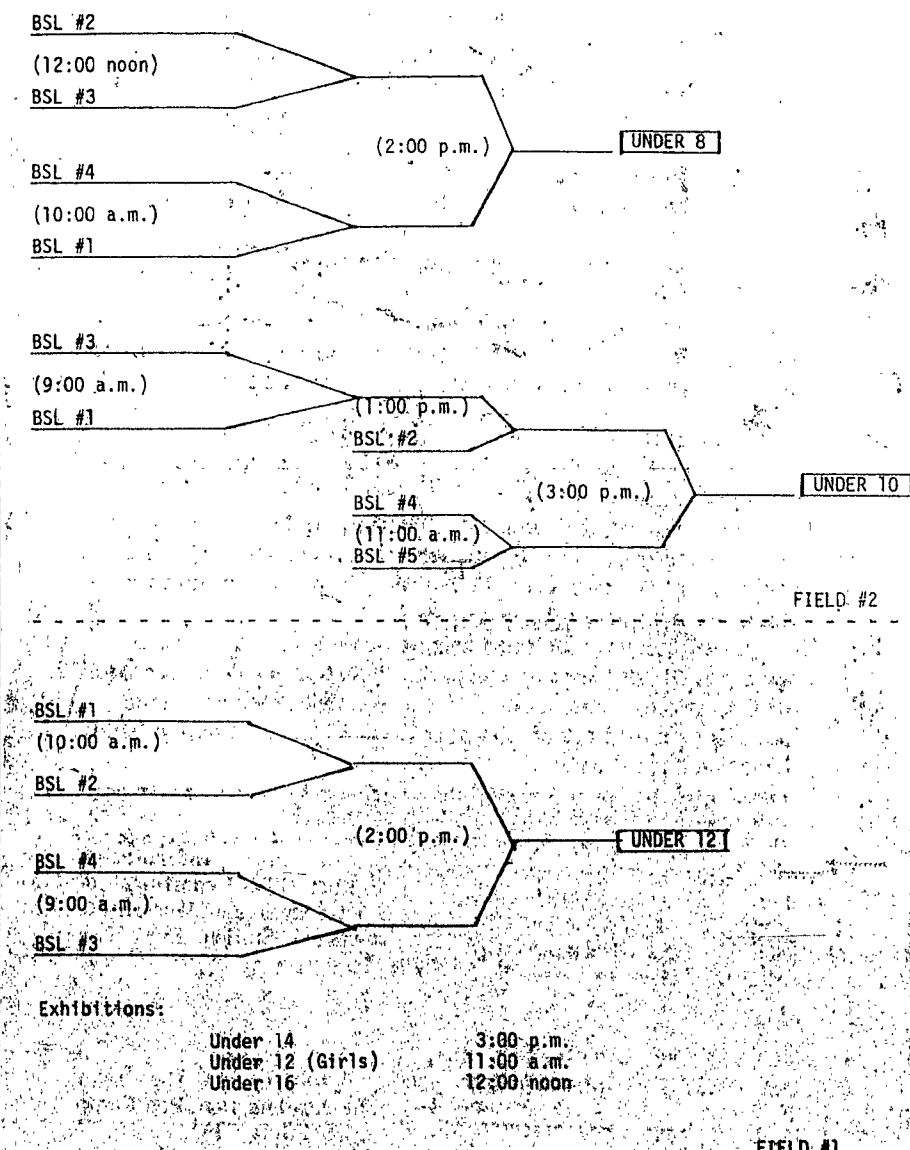

League spokesman Ray Kidd explained that each of the games would consist of 20 minute halves with free substitutions on possession and kick-offs upon recognition by the referee.

Kidd also pointed out that each player on a team has to play at least one-half of each contest that team is in and that all ties will be decided by a 'shoot-out.'

The tournament is divided into three age groups: under 8, under 10, and under 12.

A pre-registration table will be available for anyone wishing to join a team for next season or to obtain more information on the league.

There is no admission charge. Refreshments will be available.

Curtis, Favre, Watson horses score

(Special to The Sea Coast Echo)

PEARL RIVER, La.—Two Hancock County horses won races Sunday at Oak Downs, but it was a former Hancock horseman who won a quarterhorse feature contest.

Charles Curtis, who now resides in Harrison County, saw his Bill's Paid record a Class AAA time of 13.40 seconds in the 250-yard 10th race against Boss Injun, owned by Richard Graham who lives near Hancock County's Dedaux community.

Curtis' second win came in the 400-yard 14th as Mr. Easy Bug had an easy victory over Little Knot. Jeff Peterman of Gulfport rode both winners for Curtis.

Hancock County's James Watson and family of Waveland and Milton Favre scored wins. Watson's Ultra Royal was a four-length winner over Eagle Folly Lady in the 400-yard 18th, and Favre's Miss Tips, captured the four-horse 350-yard third with a clocking of :19.85.

There were several upsets on the 18-race program, including one in the first quarterhorse feature.

Jessie's Beauty, owned by V. L. Thomas of Bogalusa and trained by Oak Downs' leading trainer, John Paul Amacker of Poplarville, came from behind to win the 440-yard feature over Some Kind of Bad.

A photo-finish machine malfunction resulted in the race, contested for a $2,000 purse, not being timed. The margin of victory was nearly two lengths.

Jessie's Beauty gained a measure of revenge, having run third to Some Kind of Bad in a $3,000 race four weeks ago. Some Kind of Bad is owned by Chris and Charles Dunn of Richton, Miss.

Riding Jessie's Beauty to the win was Charlie Silkwood of Gulfport. Marty Comfort of Hancock County was aboard the loser.

An upset occurred in the 350-yard 13th race as Jet Oh Lina posted a Top Class AA time of :18.32 in turning back favored Linda Three Bars (18.76) and Dial's Girl (18.80). Delois Senex of Denham Springs was in the irons aboard the winner.

Comfort, Senex and Melvin Baham (Folsom) each had three wins on Sunday's racing card. Comfort's performance allowed him to take a one-win lead over Leo Fricke of the Palace, :37.59. Little Tammy, :37.89. Patsy, :38.16. Carl Bennett II, :38.58.

Leading rider JoAnn Boatwright of Cantonment, Fla., who leads Comfort by 17 wins, recorded only two victories Sunday, one of which was a dead heat in the 16th race.

Senator Thad Cochran

SPECIAL REPORT Outdoor Heritage

Conservation, preservation of wildlife and maintenance of adequate outdoor recreational opportunities are important goals for all Americans, and I am pleased to have additional responsibilities in this field. Vice President George Bush recently appointed me to the seven-member federal Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, which oversees nationwide efforts to acquire and maintain wildlife habitats necessary to sustain duck, geese and other migratory bird populations.

Other members of this Migratory Bird Commission include my colleague from Arkansas, Senator David Pryor, two members of the U.S. House of Representatives, and the Secretaries of the Departments of Agriculture, Interior and Transportation.

Since we have a large number of hunters and outdoor sportsmen and enthusiasts in Mississippi, I am pleased to have the opportunity to serve on this important commission and actively work toward maintaining and protecting our wildlife and natural resources.

Incidentally, state and federal wildlife officials indicate that nearly half a million Mississippians hold various hunting and fishing licenses, and hundreds of thousands more participate in other outdoor recreational activities.

We are fortunate in our state to have this heritage, and many are anxious that we continue to conserve, protect and develop our natural resources for future enjoyment.

The Migratory Bird Commission was established over 50 years ago, by an act of Congress in 1929, after it became clear our nation's waterfowl were becoming seriously threatened.

Through sales of the federal duck stamp for duck hunters, this program has enabled the commission to spend over $150 million to acquire wildlife, or waterfowl, habitats, and maintain them for ducks, geese, and other migratory birds. Last year, for example, about $18 million was raised through the duck stamp program.

The Migratory Bird Commission meets periodically each year to oversee and authorize the expenditure of these funds and to help supervise our national program of providing sufficient habitats to sustain an adequate waterfowl population.

Our own state of Mississippi lies in the middle of one of the nation's four major north-south waterfowl migration routes, the Mississippi River Valley flyway, stretching from Canada to the Gulf.

The climate and natural terrain of Mississippi, abundant with wetlands and good wildlife habitats, has made our state among the nation's best for hunting, outdoor recreation and other sports activities.

In Mississippi, we have two national wildlife refuges, one in the Neshoba County area in the eastern part of the state, and another in the South Delta area of Holmes, Yazoo and Humphreys counties. There are also a number of game and wildlife management areas managed by our state.

Preserving our natural resources and conserving wildlife and wetlands are challenges that call for the cooperation of everyone concerned.

Those of us who have grown up in Mississippi, and love and enjoy the great outdoors, must work to insure that our children and those generations to follow have the same benefits.

I look forward to working as an active member of the Migratory Bird Conservation Commission.

American are hunters and outdoorsmen by tradition. It was a necessity in the early years of our nation's history. Now it is a privilege for most, but it is necessary for us to maintain sound conservation and wildlife programs if all American are able to continue to participate in and enjoy these opportunities.

STATE CHAMP—St. Stanislaus High School junior Pat Kergosien, 16, son of Mr. and Phil Kergosien of Bay St. Louis, captured first place in the junior freestyle division competition of the Mississippi Bow and Arrow Association at a recent association symposium in Picayune. In addition to the trophy, Kergosien won an expense-paid trip to a white tail deer hunt near Uvalde, Tex. in late 1981. Mike Green and Raymond Schmidt, both of Bay St. Louis, placed sixth and ninth, respectively, in the men's division of the Picayune competition. FISHIN' TIPS

from...Tom Martin

FROM THE MAIL BAG

I hear a lot of fishermen say: "Man, look at that water. Dead, glassy calm. Ain't gonna be many fish caught today." Well, if they think that way they probably won't catch many. Ol' Ber Tom welcomes sick water because it can bring some exciting topwater action. Just cruise around and look for underwater weeds. You can do this when the water is sick because it's like looking through a plate glass window. Stay an easy cast distant because the calmer the water the farther away the bigger, smarter fish can hear you.

Now is when I like to use a floating minnow lure that also dives when you reel it. Just chuck it over the weeds and let it lie still, like a creature that has hit on the water and is afraid to move for fear it'll get eaten.

Count about ten, 5-to-10-10-10-10, then barely twitch that lure to breathe a little life into it. Let it lie motionless for another ten count. By now either you or a whopper bass looking at that lure has stood about all the waiting you can take, and some goshawful explosions can occur!

BER TOM'S CLOSING TIP: If slow-and-easy-worked lures don't trigger strikes, go to the opposite type, a noisy, spluttering surface lure worked superfast over weedy areas. There are times when this will take a limit of fish in short, memorable order!

Rocks stopped
by St. Paul, 7-5

St. Stanislaus pushed across three runs in the seventh inning but still came up on the short end of a 7-5 score against St. Paul in Covington, La. Saturday afternoon.

The Rocks could muster only three hits in the high school baseball contest as St. Paul committed five errors. Sean Logan scored two times even though he failed to get a hit. He reached base both times with walks.

Joe Gex and Andrew Haas each had two RBIs.

Gus Alme was the loser pitching in relief of Brian Logan.

St. Stanislaus stands at 10-5 overall and 3-0 in conference play. The Rocks will travel to Jackson County to face Our Lady of Victory in a 6 p.m. game Friday night.

Pass Christian
edges Bay High

By RANDY PONDER

Pitcher Jeff Ulrich blasted a solo homer in the home half of the eighth inning as Pass Christian slipped past Bay High, 5-4, Tuesday afternoon in the Pass.

The Pirates rallied for two runs in the bottom of the seventh to knot the high school baseball game and force the extra play.

Bay High produced three runs in the sixth to take the lead. The Pirates jumped on the board first with two runs in the opening frame. The Tigers added a run in the seventh.

Ulrich was the winning pitcher for Pass Christian. He worked two and two-thirds innings in relief of starter Randy Ladner.

Scotty Adam, who pitched all eight frames for the Tigers, was charged with the loss. Adam also had three RBIs. Short stop Michael Hall drove in two runs for the Pirates with a home run.

With the win, Pass Christian is 5-5 for the season and will host Vancleave today.

Bay High stands at 8 wins and 7 losses and will travel to D'Iberville today for a 6:30 p.m. encounter with the Warriors.

Here are some tips to help you save money on your long distance phone calls:

- Dial direct, the One-Plus* way. It's the cheapest way to call. You save if you don't use operator assistance.
- Dial One-Plus during discount periods. You get a 60% discount off the regular weekday rate when you dial One-Plus nights from 11 p.m. to 8 a.m., all day Saturday, and Sunday till 5 p.m. And you get a 35% discount weekday and Sunday evenings from 5 p.m. till 11 p.m.
- The total charge for a long distance call is based on the rate in effect when the call begins. So, try to begin your calls after rates go down or before rates go up.
- Take advantage of toll-free "800" numbers.
- If you dial a wrong number on a long distance call, tell the operator. You'll get a billing adjustment.
- Check the Call Guide or Customer Guide section in the front of your telephone directory for more money-saving tips.

Just a reminder—the way you are charged for directory assistance (DA) has changed. Now, you pay only for the DA service you actually use.

When you need a number, look in the phone book first. Most numbers are listed there. If you look in the book first, chances are you'll never need to exceed the ten DA calls you get for no extra charge each month.

Of course, if you do need help in locating a number, our DA operators will be happy to assist you. When you get a number from the DA operator, write it down in a personal directory or on the Quick List on the back of the phone book. Then you'll have it handy when you need it again.

*One-Plus rates do not apply to Zero-Plus dialed calls, operator-assisted calls, coin telephone calls, calls from a hotel or motel, or calls to Alaska or Hawaii.

On One-Plus calls, discounts apply to total charges. On operator-assisted calls, discounts apply only to additional minute charges.

FORMER SCHOONER—The 'Miracle' docked at Bayou Cadet Marina was constructed in 1914 as a two-masted, six-sail 29-ton solid cypress schooner. The boat is now owned by Tom Wheel- don of Hattiesburg who purchased the vessel in 1977. Wheel- don's brother Bob of Bay St. Louis says the schooner sailed for many years along the Gulf and Atlantic Coasts engaged as a cargo and oyster fishing vessel. Bob Wheel- don adds that in the early 1950's the 'The Miracle' was converted to gasoline then diesel engine propulsion. Masts were removed and the deck was reconstructed when the diesel engine was installed. The sturdy old boat is now utilized as a commercial shrimping vessel. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducomb Jr.)

GCRL to present softshell workshop

Crab-shedding to obtain softshell crabs will be the subject of a workshop from 1 to 5 p.m. on Saturday, April 11 at the Marine Education Center in Biloxi.

The Gulf Coast Research Laboratory is sponsoring the workshop which will be conducted by staff marine biologists Harriet Perry, Mississippi's "Crab Lady," and John Ogle.

The program will be informal, including information on aspects of crab-shedding such as (1) How to recognize peeler, or shedding crabs; (2) techniques for "catching peelers;" (3) handling peelers in the field; (4) methods of holding crabs until they molt and shed their hard shells; and (5) the economics of crab shedding.

Time will be allowed for questions and answers. Color slides and drawings will be used to illustrate presentations by Perry and Ogle.

Workshop participants will visit an adjacent site where an experimental pilot crab-shedding facility is under construction by the Laboratory, and several closed circulating seawater holding aquaculture system, constructed by Ogle.

Perry said, "We have received numerous requests for assistance with crab shedding and we are hoping that the workshop will provide helpful information, especially to private individuals."

"There is no fishery here directed toward harvesting peeler crabs specifically and without a steady source of such crabs, it is not advisable to undertake a commercial crab-shedding venture," Perry advises.

"However, many families who have access to water, may learn how to recognize crabs that are about to shed and how they can hold them until they become that seafood delicacy, soft-shelled crabs."

Largemouth Bass --Mississippi's most popular fish

By TOM HOAR
 Daily Mississippian
 News Service

The largemouth bass, probably the most sought after freshwater game fish in Mississippi, deserves in every way the reputation that has made it this state's most popular fish.

Savage strikes, acrobatic jumps and strong fighting, (besides being excellent table fare) make the bass a valuable resource.

"Bigmouths," as they are locally known, inhabit every reservoir, state and county lake in Mississippi. They are plentiful in privately owned lakes and ponds as well.

Small ponds and lakes, because they are apt to heat up faster during warm spells than are the big reservoirs, produce best this time of year.

The state record, a bass weighing more than 13 pounds, was taken in mid-winter from a small farm pond near Starkville several years ago.

Many small lakes and ponds in the Lafayette County area have the potential to produce (if they already don't contain) bigger fish than that.

The best time to catch really big bass is now, during periods of warm weather. The females will spawn (lay eggs) soon and will feed heavily prior to this time to build up strength.

Minnows will just about always take these fish, as will crawfish and salamanders. These baits should be fished near brush or trees in the water. It might take a little time to locate the fish because big females sometimes congregate prior to spawning. Once found, it's not difficult to catch the limit of 10 fish.

For those who prefer to use artificial baits, plastic worms, spinner baits, sinking minnow imitations and crank baits fished slowly at medium depths will produce.

With the heavy rains that usually accompany the arrival of spring in our area, the water will rise and bass in the large reservoirs will move inland to spawn.

More fish can be caught at this time of year than any other by using the wading method.

Heavy bass tackle with at least 14- (preferably 17-) pound test line is considered ideal. A big bass can break lighter lines with little trouble in snag-infested waters.

Profit-loss records rival win-loss records in NFL

The National Football League is more than Sunday afternoon and Monday night wars between 250-pound linemen and high-priced quarterbacks.

It's also more than Super Bowls, inter-divisional rivalries and long seasons. The NFL consists of 28 of the most sophisticated and complex business entities operating in the United States enterprise system today, says a University of Mississippi professor who has studied the management structures and organizational operations of 10 NFL franchises.

Dr. Donald R. Latham, assistant professor of management at Ole Miss, found in his study that there is some correlation between the teams' records on the field and their performance in the front office.

"We evaluated the teams and found that the franchises which did not enjoy winning records were mainly concerned with winning and drawing at the box office," said Dr. Latham. "This suggested that some of their objectives also acted as constraints and were viewed by NFL managers as obstacles to be overcome."

However, he said, survival in the NFL today means more than just producing a winning football team and packing the stands.

"Survival among the 28 teams in the NFL means making a profit and increasing revenue. But it also is related to meeting customer, community, manager, government and NFL needs," Dr. Latham said. "This clearly shows that winning teams tend to be more concerned with such activities as community involvement and facilities improvement. These activities create goodwill and improve profits."

The 10 teams Dr. Latham visited and studied were the New Orleans Saints, the Cleveland Browns, the Dallas Cowboys, the Kansas City Chiefs, the Miami Dolphins, the San Diego Chargers, the New England Patriots, the Seattle Seahawks, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and the Minnesota Vikings.

"The thing that people must keep in mind is that all of these teams are different businesses and very complicated businesses at that," Dr. Latham said. "No matter what their records happen to be on the field during the NFL season, all of the organizations are winners."

"Professional sports teams in general are among the largest industries in terms of total revenue, yet the decision making and goal-setting functions are done by relatively few individuals. It is an interesting relationship because the way non-coaching personnel view the team's objectives may influence the success on the field and the success of the team on the field may also influence the way managers run their team."

Competition in the NFL goes far beyond the battle between offensive and defensive linemen and the final score in a mid-season matchup, he concluded.

The competition also takes place in the offices of front office managers in setting goals, objectives, policies and solid business practices that generate profits and community involvement as well as a winning team.

Wildlife Department tells duck stamp art winner

A popular Hinds County wildlife artist is the winner of this year's annual Mississippi waterfowl stamp art competition, sponsored by the state Department of Wildlife Conservation.

John Reimers, 32, of Jackson took first place in the contest Monday, March 30, during the judging held at the Department's Natural Science Museum in Jackson.

Reimers' winning canvas, a pair of redhead ducks, took top honors from a field of 60 contestants. The artwork scored 132 of a possible 150 points at the end of two rounds of judging.

Held each year by the Department of Wildlife Conservation, the state-wide competition is open to Mississippi residents only. The contest selects the artwork that will appear on the state-produced duck stamp issued by the Department later this year.

Judges for the event included: Billy Joe Cross, Clinton, southern regional supervisor for Ducks Unlimited; Hugh Bateman, Baton Rouge, La., assistant federal aid coordinator for the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission; and Francis Rebmann, Jackson, executive director of the Mississippi Wildlife Federation.

A wildlife artist for some five years, Reimers placed in the top 11 percent in the federal duck stamp competition last year, sponsored annually by the U.S. Department of the Interior. He placed fourth in the Nevada duck stamp contest in 1979.

"I really didn't think I was going to win the Mississippi contest this year," Reimers said, "because of all the tough new artwork that has been entered in the contest. Also, I thought my approach this year was a little different. Instead of painting the regular flying ducks which has been so popular in past contests I went with a pair of redhead ducks standing in the water near a canebrake."

A graduate of Mississippi College in 1972, where he studied under Dr. Sam Gore, Reimers said he went for overall effect in this year's painting instead of finely painted feathers.

"I tried to portray the real effect of the amount of detail 1981, you would see in the ducks if you observed them from a distance," Reimers explained.

Reimers says he paints every day, and especially in the mornings. "I try to do it then before the telephone starts ringing."

Charles Calais of Vicksburg came in second in the competition with 125 points. Others in the top five included: Lottie Fulton, Jackson, 115; Steven Church, Picayune, 110; Rick Anderson, Natchez, 93.

Southwest and Gulfcoast Junior colleges wound up in a first place tie with identical 321 team scores in a recent Pearl River College Invitational Golf Tournament at the Pearl River Valley Country Club.

Hinds placed second with a 325 score and Pearl River fourth with a 341 mark. East Central, Co-Lin and Meridian finished out the seven-school competition.

Mike Hughes of Gulf Coast shot a 73 for the medalist honors. PRC's Mike Lott led his team with an 81 score. Roman Penton and John Bailey posted 85's and Bobby Moorhead shot 90 and Donald Burge a 92.

Perk signs 17 to grants-in-aid

Seventeen high school seniors have signed grant-in-aid football scholarships with Gulf Coast Junior College, Bulldog Coach George Sekul has announced.

He said "Four or five other players," all recruited during spring tryouts at Perkinston Campus, "are expected to sign in August."

The players who have been awarded scholarships "all have good stats and will help the team get off to a good start in the defense of its 1980 state title," Sekul predicted.

Signees are: From Pascagoula—Defensive backs David Evans, 5-10, 175, and Edward Robinson, 5-8, 155; linebacker Doug Burgess, 5-11, 220; and defensive tackle Benny Painter, 5-11, 220.

From Biloxi—Defensive end

Scott Thompson, 6-3, 210, and offensive tackle Gene Williams, 6-2, 290.

From Lucedale (George County High School)—Quarterback Vaughn Frytogle, 6-2, 180, and linebacker Leveell Bradley, 6-1, 170.

From Moss Point—Defensive backs Louis Johns, 5-9, 165, Randy Perryman, 6-2, 190, and Jon Salter, 5-10, 175; and defensive tackle Lovell Colvin, 6-0, 245.

Others are linebackers Mark Scaffide, 5-10, 200, of Long Beach, and Chris Martino, 6-1, 190, of Notre Dame High School; quarterback Morris Hitt, 6-2, 155, of St. Martin; punter-kicker Kirk Basone, 6-1, 175, of Gulfport; and runningback Greg Switzer, 5-9, 160, of Live Oak Academy.

Sports network plans WCT finals coverage

The Entertainment and Sports Programming Network, Ch. 3 on the Hancock Cable, will present live coverage of the week-long WCT finals from Reunion Arena in Dallas beginning Monday, April 27, at 7 p.m.

ESPN was recently nominated for an Award for Cablecasting Excellence (ACE) by the National Cable Television Association for its coverage of last year's WCT Finals championship match, which was won by Jimmy Connors in four sets over John McEnroe.

The WCT Finals are the climax of the eight-stop World Series of Tennis tour, six events of which have been televised by ESPN.

The winner of each tournament receives an invitation to the WCT finals. Other participants are selected on the basis of a point system to fill the eight-man field.

Players who have already been assured of a spot in Dallas are Jimmy Connors (winner of the Brussels and Rotterdam events), John McEnroe (Milan), Roscoe Tanner (Philadelphia), Johan Kriek (Monterrey) and Yannick Noah (Richmond). Gene Mayer and Wojtek Fibak are among the players considered likely to earn an invitation on the basis of points.

ESPN will televise each of the seven sessions live and in its entirety. The quarterfinals will be shown at 7 p.m., April 27 through April 30, one match each night; the semifinals will be played on Friday, May 1 at 4 and 8 p.m.; and the championship match will take place at 1 p.m. on Sunday, May 3. Ralph Mole will produce the tournament coverage for the network.

Jim Simpson and former tennis great Cliff Drysdale will describe the action from courtide.

Total prize money in the WCT Finals is $25,000, with the winner receiving $100,000.

ESPN, a subsidiary of the Getty Oil Company, now has nearly 9 million subscriber homes nationwide and over 1,700 affiliate cable systems.

Kiln Annunciation School celebrates Field Day

Kiln Annunciation students compete in the three-legged race.

The Kiln Annunciation School recently staged an annual field day in celebration of the Annunciation Feast with children in grades 1-6 competing in events including sack racing, three legged races and obstacle course races.

Six grade students under the direction of their teacher Royce Peters organize the competition.

All winners are scheduled to receive awards at a later date.

Also included in the day's activities were baked goods donated by parents to benefit the school.

Cowboy Mike Lee: the real thing

From Gilley's in Pasadena, Texas, to Tall's Coral in Hattiesburg, just about everyone is trying to fashion themselves after the 'Urban Cowboy'.

Mike Lee, a freshman at Pearl River College from Leetown east of Piquette, is certainly no different.

Once he straps on his sterling silver belt buckle, decorated with 10 karat gold letters and rubies, and dons his black cowboy hat with a genuine rattlesnake skin band with 10 rattles shaking at the end, you'd think he was ready to step in for John Travolta.

However, unlike most people who dress western on Friday night, Mike is a real, living, breathing cowboy. And he has the titles to prove it.

Mike is the 1980 AJQHA (American Junior Quarter Horse Association) World Champion in stake racing and is the 1980 AJQHA Reserve World Champion in barrel racing.

The AJQHA World Horse Show is held each year in Tulsa, Oklahoma. The number of entries for the competition ranges from 800-1000. To qualify for one of the various events a rider must be of the top two in the state or of the top ten in the nation.

In the state, Mike is the 1980 Mississippi State Champion in barrels, poles, and stake racing. He is also the 1980 Reserve State Champion in calf roping. In addition, Mike won the Texas State Championship in barrels and stake racing in 1979.

The honor roll is an award given to the one who has the most quality points (points given in shows) in the nation. Mike holds the 1980 honor roll in the stake race, and this March, during spring holidays, Mike will travel to Hawaii to receive his honor roll award.

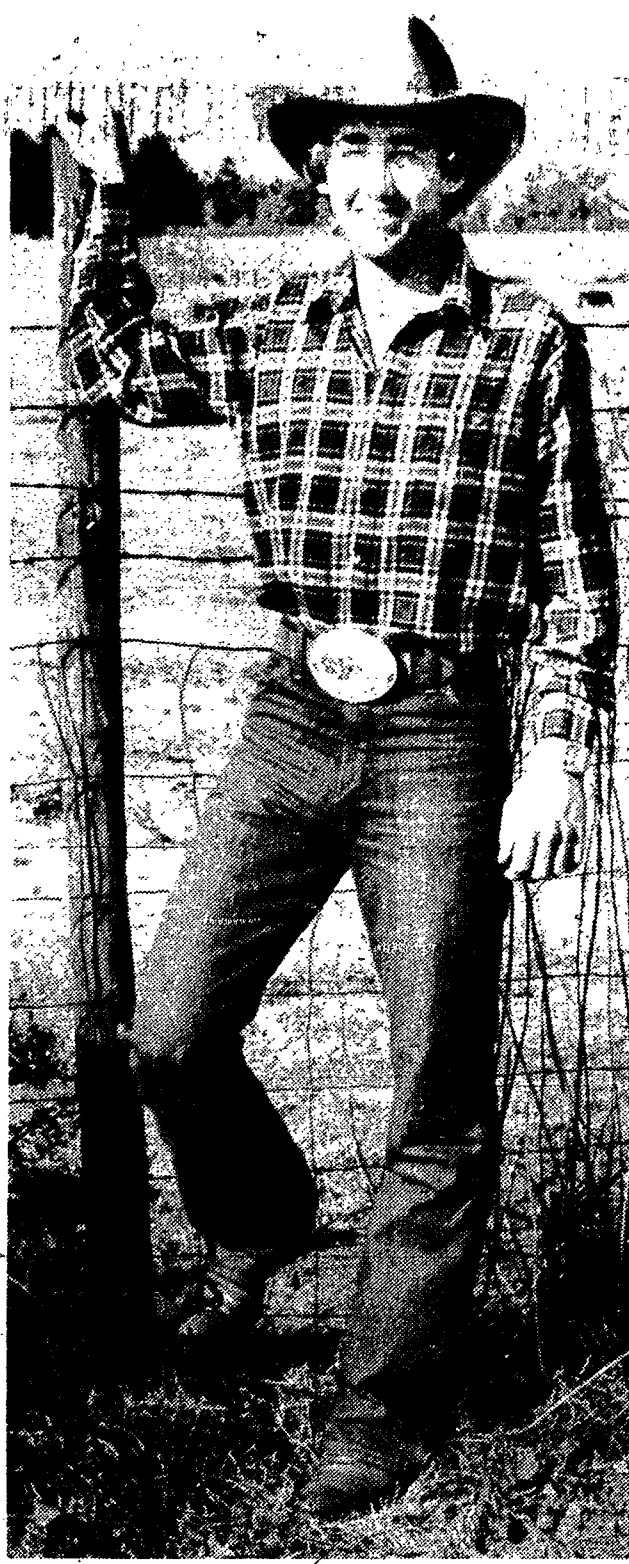

Of course Mike couldn't have won a single title without this registered quarter horse. Her name is Fly Fly Sonora, commonly called "Star" and she is seven years old. Mike and Star spend a lot of practice time together. Training four to five hours each day during the summer keeps the two well acquainted. In the winter, practice dwindles to two days a week.

Mike is studying to become a veterinarian. He is taking his background courses here at Pearl River. He came to PRC because it was so close to his Hancock home.

Even with his full schedule, Mike finds time to follow the PRC Lady Wildcats' schedule. A special Lady 'Cat, Shelley Dedeaux, is another Mike came to Pearl River.

In the future, Mike plans to focus on calf roping, which is fairly new to him. His calf roping events will mainly be limited to rodeos - a vast change from his horse shows. As Mike continues to pursue and develop himself as a cowboy, he'll continue to be recognized like Cole - as being "the real thing."

Dana Favre elected to top state post by Junior Classical League

Thirty-three Bay Senior High Latin students attended a Mississippi Junior Classical League convention in Jackson recently, returning to the coast with numerous awards in scholastic and track events.

In addition, Dana Favre, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam

Favre of Bay St. Louis, was elected president by the approximately 300 high school Latin students in attendance from public and private schools throughout the state.

At Bay Senior High she is an alpha honor roll student, a cheer leader, and a member of the student council, the Latin club, and the tennis team.

The convention on the campus of Millsaps College included both literary and athletic competitions.

First-year students Marc Barrett and Debbie McCullough placed second and third in translations; Joe Gilbert and Frank Gibson tied for second place in Roman history; Tereau Pearson placed second in mythology; Donna Bragg placed third and Joe Wusnack received honorable mention in the category of phrases, mottoes, and abbreviations; and on Level II Doris Wilkinson placed second in derivatives.

Track events similar to those which the Romans enjoyed were held on the final afternoon. Marc Barrett was third in the mile marathon; the boys' relay team of Donald Dwyer, Oren Bounds, Andy Barrett, and Donald Diboll won second place; and the girls' relay team of Dana Favre, Tereau Pearson, Janice Almond, and Donna Gilmore won third place.

The Latin Club had earned a portion of its convention expenses through a car wash and bake sale recently.

Some $100 of the proceeds, however, were earmarked as a donation toward reparation of recent earthquake damage to the ancient Italian city of Pompeii.

Those attending the convention included Karen Ladner, Les Parker, Debbie McCullough, Vickie Young, Teresa Ladner, Donald Dwyer, Scott Ballard, Joe Gilbert, Susan Fricke, Janice Almond, Doris Wilkinson, Angela Johnston, Maria Crosby, Andy Barrett, Oren Bounds, Joe Wusnack, Frank Gibson, Dana Favre, Gina Seymour, Mary Ramond, and Angela Koenen.

Also, Alesia Smith, Donna Gilmore, Karen Peterson, Donna Bragg, Tereau Pearson, Michelle Anderson, Donald Diboll, Marc Barrett, Scott Carter, Mark Lizana, Rickey Ladner, David Lansen, and Terry Green.

Meadames Sam Favre, J.C. Loenen, and Rene de Montluzin accompanied the group as chaperons.

Written requests with the $5 fee should include the child's full name, date and county of birth, the mother's maiden name, and the father's name. Checks or money orders should be payable to State Board of Health.

Carrubba among JD queen contestants

Fifteen Gulf Coast Junior College students will compete for the title of Miss Jefferson Davis Campus 1981 Saturday at 8 p.m.

The preliminary Miss Mississippi pageant will be in the campus fine arts auditorium.

"City Lights" will be the pageant's theme with student council president Johnny Myers of Gulfport and James Fulton of the University of Southern Mississippi sharing emcee duties.

Clark Shull of Pass Christian and Karla Smith of Gulfport are student director. Stage manager is Paul Bertucci of Gulfport and scenery design is by Tina Adams, Pass Christian, and Sally Idol, Gulfport.

Entertainment will be by Anne Gallegly, Brenda Lawrence, Stella Lawson and Andrea Kriss Moore, all of Biloxi; and Jo Ann Young, Gulfport.

The pageant is sponsored by the yearbook staff in cooperation with the student council and fine arts department. There will be a student art exhibit in the auditorium lobby.

Contestants will be judged in talent, evening gown, swimsuit competition and judges' interviews.

Marguerite Carrubba, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Carrubba of Pass Christian, is among the contestants.

CHARIOT WASH—Bay Senior High Latin Club members earned money at a recent car wash and bake sale. A part of the proceeds helped to finance a trip to a state Latin convention in Jackson, and $100 is being sent to help in restoring the ancient city of Pompeii, damaged in recent Italian earthquakes.

Shot record necessary for first school signup

Most Mississippi school children are already counting the days until summer vacation, but many youngsters are just beginning the anticipation and registration process for their first year of school.

THOMAS ENROLLS

Gerald B. Thomas, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.M. Thomas, Rt. 2, Box 499, Bay St. Louis, has enrolled in the DeVry Institute of Technology, Dallas, Tex. A 1980 graduate of St. Stanislaus College, he is studying electronics technology.

Children who will enroll in kindergarten or first grade for the 1981-82 session are required to have the blue certificate of compliance for proof of immunization and a birth certificate.

The immunization compliance forms and birth certificate application forms are available from the county health department. Private physicians and other health care providers also offer the certificate of compliance.

Only children enrolling in school for the first time — kindergarten, first grade, or from a non-Mississippi school system — will need the certificate of compliance.

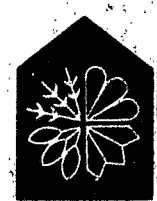

Currently enrolled students in grades two through 12 already have valid certificates on file.

Birth certificates may be obtained by writing the State Board of Health, P. O. Box 1700, Jackson, MS 39205. Parents may request the short form birth certificate, which meets school requirements and costs half as much as the long form.

Written requests with the $5 fee should include the child's full name, date and county of birth, the mother's maiden name, and the father's name. Checks or money orders should be payable to State Board of Health.

150 WAYS TO SAVE!

No-FRILLS

Food doesn't have to be fancy to be good.

Why pay more for expensive extras you don't really need? With No-Frills we offer only a limited selection of basic foods in plain, simple black-and-white packages. We eliminate colorful labels, fancy containers, and the expense of national advertising.

We also offer you an expanded line of the basic household products you buy most often and use plenty of. They're not scented and don't come in elaborate containers. The paper products are single-ly and not available in extravagant designs and colors. But they do get the job done.

And we guarantee that you will get your money's worth. Look for the Valu-Time® seal of approval: it's your assurance that each No-Frills product meets our strict specifications. And, as with everything we sell, if you're not completely satisfied we'll give you your money back.

Good nutrition, good taste, good value...No-Frills!
